ABOUT ME

A career built around two things: understanding people deeply, and helping them grow. Frontline mental health work in Australia sharpened the ability to read individuals accurately and respond with structure and care — skills that later shaped a second career coordinating international education programs and training initiatives across Pakistan. Has since trained 100+ educators in teaching methodology, emotional psychology, and classroom communication, while personally guiding 500+ students through academic preparation, language proficiency (IELTS/PTE), and career planning. Comfortable working across cultures and institutions, with experience designing curricula, coordinating multi-stakeholder programs, and hosting large-scale educational events as moderator and MC. Brings a rare combination: the patience and insight of a counsellor, paired with the organizational discipline of someone who has run training programs and businesses end-to-end.
